Skating Rink Ready

Mr. Moen informs us that the rink will be ready for use by next Saturday afternoon and that he has seventy-five pairs of the best roller skates that he would be pleased to see in use. Frank L. Clarke, who has had experience in the roller skating line, will manage the floor and everyone is guaranteed a good time.

Alert Fire Company Has Good Meeting

Although a great many attractive entertainments were held out last Monday evening, more firemen attended the regular monthly meeting than have been present at the meetings for months. Many profitable discussions were given on different subjects relative to better fire protection for the town.

Four new members, F. L. Clarke, F. Gingrass, F. Farrar and Oscar Carlson, were taken into the company.

The fire company has grown considerable during the last year and a grand Fireman's Ball was decided upon to raise funds for meeting the needs of the growing organization. Washington's Birthday was the date set for the ball.

The first Monday in January was too popular a night and the election of officers was postponed to the February meeting which all firemen should attend.

The Bar to Lord Holland.

Among the qualifications of a cabinet minister discretion ranks high. Lord Broughton notes in his diary a fracas between Lady Holland and Lord John Russell. The former asked the latter why Lord Holland was excluded from office. "If you must know," said Lord John Russell, "because no man will act in a cabinet with a person whose wife opens all his letters."

CHASTITY.

Chastity enables the soul to breathe a pure air in the foulest places. Continence makes her strong, no matter in what condition the body may be. Her sway over the senses makes her queenly; her light and peace render her beautiful.—Joubert.

Died of Starvation And Exposure

Body Found In Cabin On Duncan Canal Identified As Mike Jacobson

Death by exposure and starvation was the verdict of the coroner's jury that examined the body and heard the evidence offered by witnesses and opinion of examining physician, Dr. L. P. Dawes, at the inquest held over the body of Mike Jacobson, found in the deserted cabin at the head of Duncan Canal on December 21st.

Mike Jacobson was a resident of Petersburg and had been working at Mason's Camp on Kuparuk Island since June. He had about seventy dollars deposited in Petersburg and had some wages still due.

The body was brought to Wrangell by Deputy Marshal Schnabel, after a stormy trip with Capt. McGehee and T. H. Cunningham on the Laura May.

The cabin where the body was discovered was visited by three men after the discovery by Patton.

The door had been nailed up and the tracks of three men leading to and from the cabin were found in the fresh snow. They were thought to be that of three Petersburg boys who had started out on a hunt and had not been heard from for two weeks.

Jacobson is the seventh man to be lost from two to ten days in the country about Duncan Canal, in the last ten years, four of them dying. It is a country which appears very easy to travel through consisting for the most part of open muskags where mountains for land marks can be seen most of the time.

Jacobson has a wife and family in Norway whom, it is rumored, are on their way to join him here.

Townsite Survey Hearing Closed

Numerous Errors in Survey Surveyors Refuse to Testify in Own Behalf

The hearing of the townsite survey case which has been in session since December 27, was finished Tuesday morning when the surveyors refused to go on the stand in their own behalf. The case has been thoroughly investigated by the Special Agent of the General Land Office, W. J. Lewis, and it is hoped that a definite disposition of the controversy will soon be made by the government.

In the testimony of the examining surveyor, Warner, it was conclusively proven that many street lines in the outlying districts were never run and that numerous errors in courses and distances exist in the survey of the settled portion of the townsite.

With the compilation of expert testimony bearing out the general worthlessness of the survey it is easy to see the grounds on which Mr. Lewis bases his opinion that survey will be thrown out.

It is the consensus of opinion in Wrangell that Attorney Chas. Casgrove made a good fight for his clients having taken the case on short notice and without any opportunity of examining the survey.

The Lady Patron in the Hotel.

For an interesting, disconcerting and all round exacting proposition in a hotel the lady patron is doubtless the winner. She must always have a parlor floor room, with bath, fronting the street and plenty of closet room. The room must be large enough to accommodate a couple of box cars she calls trunks. She will use three times as many towels as a man, keep the bell boys in perpetual motion to answer her calls and make more complaints about the room temperature in a day than a man would in a month.—Hotel World.

PRACTICAL ECONOMY.

If you would succeed in business never spend a cent more than you earn. No matter how small your earnings, you should master this art. I use the word "art" advisedly, as so many young men appear to fritter away without so much as a thought all their earnings.—Marshall Field.

Leap Year Ball

The first ball of the year was given at the Wrangell Hotel Monday evening. It was a truly leap year affair, the gentlemen getting only one or two chances to choose partners. Mrs. Jas. Walton acted as Mistress of Ceremonies and conducted the dance in a praiseworthy manner.

What Constitutes a Possessory Right To A Lot

The following copy of a letter from the General Land Office, Washington, D. C., to a citizen of Ketchikan, Alaska, is self-explanatory and of interest to property owners of Wrangell.

Department of the Interior
General Land Office,
Washington,

November 12, 1910.

Mr. _____
Ketchikan, Alaska.
Sir:—

In response to your letter of October 7, 1910, you are advised that in the case of Bender vs. Shimer (19 L. D., 363), the Department, after citing numerous authorities, held:

"It follows from these authorities that there can be no such thing as constructive occupancy under the townsite laws, but there must be an actual bodily presence of the claimant or someone for him, on the lot or lots for which he seeks to acquire title. Or a purpose to enjoy, united with or manifested by such visible acts, improvements or enclosures as will give to the claimant the absolute and exclusive enjoyment of it."

In the case of Benson vs. Hunter (19 L. D., 290), it was held:

"Primarily, the entry for a townsite is made by the trustee 'for the several use and benefit of the occupants thereof', which must mean good faith occupancy of the lot or lots, either for the purpose of residence, or for conducting some sort of legitimate business thereon, such as a store, shop, office, bank, factory, etc. A mere colorable occupancy, for the purpose of speculating in the lot or lots is not such an occupancy as would warrant the trustee in allowing such claimant to purchase as an occupant."

The entry is a double trust, first, of the occupied lots for the several use and benefit of those occupying them in good faith for townsite purposes on the date of the townsite entry, and, second, of the lots unoccupied on said date to be sold for the benefit of the municipality. The municipality, has the right to contest an application for a deed to a lot on its allegation that such lot was not occupied in good faith by the applicant on the date of the townsite entry, and was, therefore, an unoccupied lot at that date.

When improvements on a lot are so insignificant as to raise a reasonable doubt as to the occupation of the lot in good faith, the surveyor may mark it "doubtful", or use any abbreviation or mark indicating the doubtful character of the occupation. Of course, all lots occupied and improved since the date of your entry must be considered as vacant. The rights of lot occupants to the lots they occupy, at the date of the townsite entry, vests on that date, subject, however, in both instances, to proof of such facts. Your legal title, evidenced by the patent, relates to the date of entry. The equitable, subject to proof, is in the cestui que trustent, and relates to the same date.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) FRED DENNETT,
Commissioner.

Board of Law Review,
by W. B. Newman.

Beating Eggs.

The next time you wish to beat the yolk and white of an egg separately try this plan: Break the egg, leaving the yolk in the half shell. Beat the white stiff, then drop in the yolk and beat together. It is not only done better, but you save washing an extra dish and losing a large proportion of the egg yolk that sticks to dish and egg beater.

Yankee.

The Indians in Massachusetts had trouble not only with the English, but in pronouncing their very name. They called it Yonkeese. Since the red men gave the white inhabitants that name it was natural that the colonies in other parts of the country should do the same. Such was the origin of the term "Yankee," as applied originally to the people of Boston, says a writer.

The Consulting Caddie.

There is one person who of late years has rather disappeared from the golfing world, but used to be greatly in evidence in it—the advisory caddie. Many of the caddies of the old Scotch school used to treat their masters (so called) much in the manner that a good old nurse treats a baby when she is beginning to teach it how to walk. In those days there was not a stroke played without the most careful consultation with these sapient mentors.—London Tatler.

Odd Ways of Catching Fish.

The Icelanders are said at one time to have taught bears to jump into the sea and catch seals. In China birds do equally well, for at a signal they dive into the lakes and bring up large fish grasped in their bills. In Greece the fishermen use branches of pine steeped in pitch and lighted. The inhabitants of Amorgos used cypress leaved cedar, which served when lighted as a flambeau, and the Chinese fish in the night with white painted boards placed in a manner to reflect the rays of the moon doubly upon the water. These attract the fish to the boat, when the men cast a large net and seldom fail to draw out considerable quantities. Anchovies are caught the same way.

THE BEST INHERITANCE.

Strive to leave to your children an inheritance of which they may be proud. Property left to a child may soon be lost, but the inheritance of virtue—a good name, an unblemished reputation—will abide forever. If those who are toiling for wealth to leave their children would but take half the pains to secure for them virtuous habits how much more serviceable would they be! The largest property may be wrested from a child, but virtue will stand by him to the last.

WINCHESTER

.401 Caliber

Self-Loading Rifle.

This new Winchester is reloaded by recoil, the repeating as well as the firing mechanism being under control of the trigger finger. A bullet fired from it strikes a blow of 2038 pounds—force enough to topple over the biggest game—penetration enough to reach the innermost vital spot. Tho wonderful in operation and powerful in execution, this rifle is neither complicated in construction nor cumbersome to handle.
